TALK ON PUBLISHING YOUR RESEARCH IN INTERNATIONAL, PEER-REVIEWED JOURNALS: TOP TIPS

Professor Tansey, a leading figure in remote sensing, has been conducting research since 1995.

His significant contributions lie in Interdisciplinary Earth Observation and Environmental Science, utilizing satellite data across various wavelengths and resolutions. His research is widely funded, including support from the European Commission, European Space Agency, UKRI, and The Royal Society. He was a member of the UN WMO Terrestrial Observations Panel for Climate and the CEOS Land Product Validation sub-group on fire disturbance. He has supervised 24 PhD students and published 93 papers in international peer-reviewed journals.

During his visit, Professor Tansey will deliver a talk on "Publishing Your Research in International, Peer-Reviewed Journals: Top Tips."
