CIRCULAR

The University of Texas at Dallas, USA is organizing a webinar on AI in Biomedical Sciences. This program equips students with cutting-edge AI techniques and tools to address complex biomedical challenges. The degree comprises semester credit hours (SCH) and features an interdisciplinary curriculum that integrates rigorous coursework in artificial intelligence, biostatistics, and biomedical sciences.

Graduates of these programs are well prepared for impactful careers in healthcare, biomedical research, and related industries.

The School of Natural Sciences and Mathematics invites interested students to learn about its Master's and Doctoral Programs, including:

- AI for Biomedical Sciences with Research Opportunities
- Data Science and Statistics
- Bioinformatics and Computational Biology
- Biotechnology
