OBJECTIVE OF THE PROGRAMME

Software testing is the process of analyzing the software to detect the differences between existing and required conditions and to evaluate the features of the software. Software testing is spanning across all the Industry to achieve the challenges and to support development activities in various domains like banking, financial services, healthcare, wireless services etc.

Software products are developed for testing the wireless devices automatically. Tools and frameworks are also developed by industries to resolve the technical issues such as functionality, interoperability and stability in wireless systems. Whenever there is a suspicion of glitches, tester is expected to analyze the application and at times he can suggest techniques to correct the malfunctions.

Efficient designing of wireless systems results in low cost and reduced time consumption. Thus the idea of seminar is to motivate the students to change their mindset and look at testing as a career but not as a supplement option to software developing.

TOPIC TO BE COVERED

- Software for Wireless Systems – Developing and testing issues
- Setting up & testing a very large scale wireless mobile network – A global perspective
- Design, Development & Testing of a Fighter Aircraft – Software Issues
- Software Test automation in Industrial setting – Issues, Challenges, and Results
