

ANNA UNIVERSITY

CHENNAI- 600025

"INVITING EXPRESSION OF INTEREST FOR MANUFACTURING AND MARKETING OF UNMANNED AERIAL SYSTEMS "

The Centre for Aerospace Research, MIT Campus, Anna University is spearheading the developmental activities of unmanned Aerial Systems in the country focusing on societal applications for immediate and future needs of the nation for last one decade.

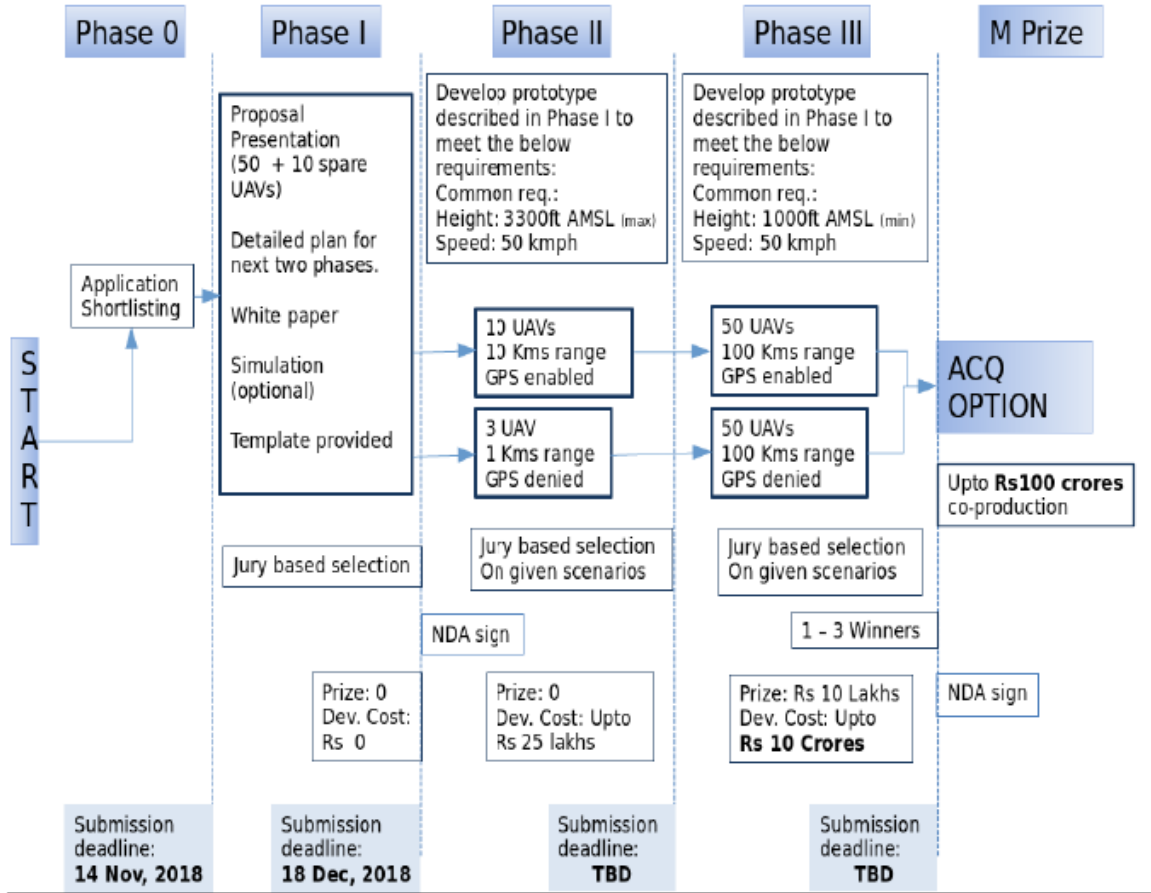

Centre for Aerospace Research (CASR), Madras Institute of Technology (MIT) Campus, Anna University, Chennai is looking for companies having interests towards manufacturing and marketing of Unmanned Aerial Systems designed and developed by CASR on royalty basis using Technology developed by CASR.

Indian Air force has announced a UAV Swarm Drone Challenge event called Mehar Baba Challenge leading to co-production with Indian Military Base Repair Depot.

<http://indianairforce.nic.in/meharbaba/>

Centre for Aerospace Research, MIT Campus of Anna University is in Phase II presently and looking for Joint Venture partners to fund the required Systems/ Sub Systems which will enable CASR to participate in the forthcoming stages. On completion of the Phases, the funding being reimbursed by Indian Air Force at various stages as mentioned below can be claimed by the company on submission of relevant documents to Indian Air Force.

Mehar Baba Prize

Indian Companies registered under “Indian Companies Act” may send their interests in this unique joint venture to the address provided below by 10th April 2019.

Address:

Director, Centre for Aerospace Research,
MIT Campus, Anna University,
Chromepet, Chennai- 600 044.

Contact No:+044- 22231165