CIRCULAR

One of our partner institutions Politecnico Di Milano, Italy is offering Ph.D. positions in Management Engineering which starts in November 2023.

The Ph.D. Program in Management Engineering (DRIG) is a full-time (3 years) curriculum of study and research at the crossroad of management, economics, and industrial engineering.

The DRIG Ph.D. trains students for high-level academic and practice-oriented research. The employment rate of its graduates is strikingly high (approximately 95%). Many DRIG Ph.D. graduates - who chose to pursue an academic career - are now professors in high-ranked universities, while the others who decided to work in the private sector instead, have achieved relevant positions.

Candidates have a structured study plan and attend courses that expose them to diverse theories and methods. While preparing their Ph.D. thesis, students are encouraged to combine diverse perspectives, span disciplinary boundaries, and, more generally, think out of the box.
