INTRODUCTION

The one day workshop on Neural Networks and its applications using MATLAB will act as the forum for researchers and practitioners working in the development and application of emerging trends to share their ideas. It is aimed to throw its light to the state of art of various research observation and results, to communicate the extensive information between academic community and Industrial organizations. WONMAT’13 paves its waves to strengthen the relationships between Companies, Research Laboratories, Universities and Institutions.

ABOUT THE INSTITUTION

University College of Engineering, Panruti formerly known as Anna university of Technology, Tiruchirappalli-Panruti Campus was started in the year 2008. The Institution offers 5 Under Graduate Programme in the medium of English & 2 UG programme in the medium Tamil in Regular and 3 UG Programme in Part Time. The Institution is located 3 km away from Panruti.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

The Electrical and Electronics Engineering Department was one of the Departments of University College of Engineering. Currently it is the largest Department at UCEP-Panruti and covers practically all sub-disciplines under Electrical Power and Electronics. The department has grown significantly and currently offers a UG programme in Electrical and Electronics Engineering.
